Claymont City Schools

is seeking qualified applicants for the position of Superintendent

About the Search

Following the announcement that John Rocchi, Claymont City Schools superintendent, would resign this summer, the board of education has contracted with The Ohio School Boards Association to launch a search for his replacement. The board is working with Cheryl W. Ryan, OSBA's director of board and management services.

Claymont City Schools' superintendent is the face of the district and is its educational leader. The board of education hopes to find an individual who wants to be a positive and integral part of the leadership team, a collaborative colleague, an example for all students in the district and a partner to the treasurer and other administrators. The new superintendent will join district treasurer Lori Statler, who is completing her seventh year in that position.

The superintendent is expected to be a model of professionalism, capable of articulating and achieving the district's educational and student achievement goals, managing the challenges of new federal and state educational policies, and maintaining a strong program of outreach and communication to district families and the broader community.

The Claymont Schools superintendent is the chief executive officer of the school district. It is his or her responsibility to advise board members on all policy matters, to lead and mentor the district's staff, and to support the board of education in its goals for district growth and improvement. The board looks forward to establishing a collaborative, mutually beneficial relationship with a new superintendent who can build a similarly collegial relationship with all district employees.

About the District

The Claymont City Schools mission is, "Preparing every child for a lifetime of success." Claymont students come from the communities of Dennison and Uhrichsville (the "twin cities"), Ohio, situated along I-77 in Tuscarawas County, halfway between Pittsburgh and Columbus. The district is proud of its academic and athletic traditions and looks forward to a superintendent who wants to become a key member of the close-knit community.

Claymont students attend school in one of five buildings within the district: Claymont Primary, Elementary, Intermediate, Middle or High School. The district offers all-day kindergarten. Students who are interested in career/technology options may attend all or part of the day at Buckeye Career Center, about 10 minutes away in New Philadelphia, Ohio.

The district employs approximately 260 staff members, who are devoted to assuring each student is offered opportunities to succeed academically, as well as to participate in a wide variety of clubs, service activities, athletics, art and music programs.

About the Community

The towns of Dennison and Uhrichsville take pride in their school district and in the quality of life their residents enjoy. Outdoor recreation opportunities include golf, the Uhrichsville Water Park, bike paths, hiking trails and other activities associated with proximity to the Tuscarawas River and Tappan Lake Park.

Trinity Hospital Twin City is located in Dennison, and Cleveland Clinic Union Hospital is in nearby Dover.

Several higher educational institutions also are located in the region of the district, including Kent State Tuscarawas, Belmont College, Stark State College and Zane State College. The community is proud of its historic and architectural landmark Dennison Railroad Depot Museum, which draws many visitors to the area each year.

Qualifications

The Claymont City Schools Board of Education is searching for a chief executive officer who is a highly capable instructional leader. He or she should be enthusiastic about an open and transparent relationship with board and community members, and able to build and articulate a vision for student achievement. The board looks for someone to collaborate with who has a passion for education, a high level of integrity, honesty and a good sense of humor.

The new superintendent will be expected to assist the district in growing student achievement, staff satisfaction, and community pride.

- Candidates must be able to demonstrate:
- Knowledge or understanding of special education, gifted education and proven strategies in college and career readiness.
 - A strong school finance and school law understanding in order to build strong and collaborative relationships with the treasurer and other district administrators.
 - A willingness to work with board and community, keeping the board of education fully informed and current with all matters pertaining to the district's schools as well as the public education landscape in general.
 - Ability to build and sustain a positive culture and morale among all staff and employees of the district, and to create an environment where the district's students are excited to come to school.
 - Leadership skills to develop, supervise, evaluate and support teaching and administrative talent, inspire high performance standards and accountability and the self-assurance to find satisfaction in the success of others.
 - Child-centered decision-making and a comprehensive view of education, strong knowledge of curriculum and instruction and a commitment of the development of all children.
 - The willingness to firmly support issues affecting the school community and decisions made by the board of education.
